The Sun Cycle in Sagittarius 2022 The Power of Light

As we approach the last month of the year 2022, the change in the calendar marks a significant time for humanity: Holidays take the lead, and celebrations bring at spark of hope. Celebration is important in our lives, offering a reminder of potential, possibility, accomplishment and promise. After two years of restraint and testing, most of us feel ready to break away from the ordinary and seek out fresh pathways. What better time to start than the cycle of the Sun in Sagittarius, the cosmic visionary and independent spirit?

When the Sun shifts to shine its light through Sagittarius on November 22nd, 2022 (3:20 AM EST), we enter the period ripe for a quest, when life's large questions inspire options worth exploring as we move away from fear and darkness, into the Light of Truth. After many of the challenges resulting from loss, this period is ripe with options. At the time the Sagittarius cycle begins, the planets Mercury and Venus are traveling in tandem, giving a boost to communication and creativity. It's time to declare intentions ... or at least hope ... with compassionate action bringing healing. However, with Mars hampered by a square with gossamer Neptune, the path may not be clear. It could be helpful to "go with the flow," but it may be more helpful to let go of the negative elements manifesting around us in favor of a period of peace and reflection. Heads up! Signals from others can be misinterpreted, or may not be honest. Be alert to the possibilities that, in the poker game of life, there could be a lot of bluffing going on!

Before you can count to ten, the New Moon in Sagittarius occurs on November 23rd at 5:57 PM EST. This marks a time for beginnings, when greater momentum can be a reward for taking bold steps toward those significant goals. For the next two weeks, the Moon will be waxing, adding extra energy and spurring progress. The conjunction of Mercury and Venus in Sagittarius continues through the 27th, when Venus may be ready to deliver a message of love. Perhaps this pairing will enhance the best parts of traveling to share the holiday with those you love!

You probably recall that Mars is now retrograde. Just think: “Moon Walk,” when you consider the best steps and actions that could aid progress. The Mars retrograde cycle will continue until January 12, 2023, so until then, patience might be required as a means of releasing unfulfilled expectations. It’s a good period to pick up a project started earlier, since you’ll likely find it easier to direct your actions differently than before. Or, perhaps it’s time to consider a plan that needed more testing before commitment.

Speaking of retrograde, Jupiter turns to move forward on November 23rd at 6:02 PM EST, after 4 months retrograde. This giant among the planets signifies abundance, optimism, adventure, and generosity, and is seen manifesting through higher education, travel, the court system, the publishing industry, philosophical pursuits and more. While retrograde, Jupiter often manifests as plans that backfire, expectations that go unfulfilled, and contracts that seems to be ineffectual. Now that Jupiter is moving forward again, anticipate that legal maneuvers, extended travel, education and writing will show greater promise and success. It’s an added bonus for Jupiter to move forward again during some of our favorite holidays!

The zodiac degree occupied by Jupiter when stationing and then moving forward is reflected by the Sabian Symbol, “LIGHT BREAKING INTO MANY COLORS AS IT PASSES THROUGH A PRISM.” The experience of light through a prism can seem almost magical, and can be inspirational.

Rainbows continue to invite us to stop and allow at least a moment of joy when the light creates that amazing dome – a reminder that life is filled with potential and abundant blessings.

Needless to say, with so many planets moving out of retrograde, there may be more extensive progress, or at least some of the projects and endeavors that may have been stalled are more likely to move forward again. Since the retrograde cycles often bring up issues that were overlooked or ignored, delayed actions and incomplete projects may seem to be quite different than originally anticipated. There’s also a temptation to go backward, but the truth is that we’ve just done that! It is time to move forward.

However, the obstacles that may have emerged during the retrograde cycles may now be easier to move or navigate, and there’s likely to be an acceleration of actions as we move further into the Sun in Sagittarius cycle. Additionally, Neptune’s retrograde cycle also ends, turning Direct on December 3rd (7:15 PM EST), when following the path inspired by your dreams and guided by intuition can provide fruitful results.

The Full Moon in Gemini on December 7th (11:08 PM EST), links up with retrograde Mars in Gemini, adding intensity to actions reaching a critical point. Actions that may have been initiated in mid-September may now take the top priority, and innovative efforts gain a boost. The weeks leading up to this Full Moon mark a significant period for communication. It's important to have clarity about your intentions before you state them, although the influence of Gemini can be helpful when you're required to be more extemporaneous. Do watch out for those who may seem to be speaking without a true understanding of what they are communicating.

Now that the gas giant Jupiter is moving direct once again, the planet moves forward into Aries' territory on December 20th, the day before the Solstice. This shift of Jupiter into Aries adds strong momentum to the impulse to get things moving. Standing still will be difficult, if not contraindicated. We welcome the Winter Solstice on December 21st, when we will experience the longest night, before welcoming a return of the light. I don't know about you, but I am always happy to experience those "longer days!" More about the Winter Solstice in the next Starlight Message.

When you're ready to schedule some time to explore what the days and months ahead may have to offer for you, please get in touch and we'll find a time that works for you. I am still working with clients by phone.

Starlight Special!

It's been a while since I've offered a Starlight Special – a product or service featured at a discounted price available to Starlight subscribers.
